June is Idaho Wine Month!

BOISE, ID (May 29, 2013)—Each June since 2009 has been a celebration of the Idaho wine industry, and it only grows in popularity every year. Idaho Wine Month is a time to reflect on how the Idaho wine industry has grown, take special trips out to familiar tasting rooms and sip on old favorites and new finds.

Over the past few years Idaho has emerged as a major wine-producing state. With the long, hot days available to growers and the state's rich, volcanic soil, grapes are growing and being made into award-winning wines. In this past year alone, Idaho's outstanding wines have gained national recognition from publications such as The Washington Times, SIP Northwest Magazine and the Chicago Tribune, among others!

To celebrate Idaho Wine Month, the Idaho Wine Commission is hosting its fifth annual Savor Idaho, the state's premier wine and food event. Savor Idaho will be held on June 9 at the Idaho Botanical Garden in Boise from 2-6pm, and has sold out each year. The Idaho Wine Commission hopes that this event, as well as many others taking place throughout the state in June, will encourage Idahoans to come together and embrace what this unique state has to offer.

In recognition of Idaho Wine Month many of Idaho's wineries, restaurants, retail stores and wine shops will be offering specials throughout the month of June on their Idaho wine products and apparel. For a detailed list of promotions please visit www.idahowines.org.
